Blincow honored for three decades plus

By Nancy McGill Hebron Journal-Register

A retirement party was held last week in honor of Thayer County Deputy Dean Blincow, who served 17 of his 35 years in law enforcement alongside former Sheriff Gary Young and current Sheriff David Lee.

"Dean is not only a good deputy, but a good friend. He knows this is his home away from home," Lee said. Blincow is taking an early retirement and not by choice. "It's not a voluntary retirement, but I won't endanger someone else's life because I am not medically well,"

Blincow said. He wanted to give Lee another five years. "We had both looked forward to another five years. He is still healthy to enjoy the rest of his retirement," Lee said.

Blincow's impeccable memory can take anyone through his career that started after an honorable discharge from advanced basic training in the military.

Kearney State College was offering a law enforcement internship for $172 a month at the Buffalo County Sheriff's Office. There, Blincow learned how the office worked from dispatch to the jailors to court service.

He proved he was the fastest lefthanded typist anyone has ever seen as he wrote the final paper for his internship.

Blincow then moved into dispatching for Buffalo County until he nabbed a job with the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office and attended law enforcement training for eight weeks, which is now 16 weeks, he said.

Jefferson County only had four deputies. Blincow found himself working double time and various shifts. He said after 18 years, he was burned out.

"I got out for four months," he Ever the officer, Blincow took a part time gig with the Fairbury Police Department and worked as the parts manager for a Dodge dealership.

"I came in and applied July 1, 1999," he said about Thayer County. There's that memory again.

Thayer County Sheriff David Lee presents Deputy Dean Blincow with a plaque to honor his 17 years with the sheriff's department. Blincow has been in law enforcement for 35 years.

"I still remember my phone number from where we lived in Colorado Springs in the 1960's. We lived on Lyle Drive," he said.

Through his 35 years as a police officer, Blincow said there are only a few people he wasn't able to calm down and get them talking.

"I think that was my greatest thing in law enforcement. I like helping people and I get along with just about anybody," he said.

He said people need to believe in law enforcement.

We are very good people. Don't think you can't wave at us or stop us. We will talk to you," he added. "We may not have all the answers, but we'll talk to you."

He advises people to get along and try talking issues over to prevent a call to law enforcement.

"Just try," he said.

Blincow knows there are problems in larger police departments, but he doesn't believe in body cameras because to him, they signify government overreach.

"I think patrol car cameras are great for traffic stops, but I don't think they should be running them on an officer. It's like big brother watching," he said.

Officers today are wary.

"Out here on 81, you have no idea what you're stopping," he said, brushing aside racial profiling. "We have no idea who you are, what race or anything.'

It takes a special breed to work the highway overnight, he said. Being a deputy is 98 percent boredom, but that leftover two percent has the potential to create terror.

Like the murder-suicide he worked in Fairbury, waiting for the state patrol's SWAT team.

Or the kid who pulled into a farmer's driveway and fired random shots from a .22.

"I worked a couple of tornadoes in Bruning and Deshler. In Deshler, we were guarding the town," he recalled. "Hardy had sent a brand new pumper and the guy took a lightning shot and dumped that $200,000 truck in the ditch."

Wednesday, August 31, 2016

And Blincow worked with Justice, the county's drug dog that retired about two years ago. Justice was trained to hear commands in German.

"It was nice having someone in the truck to talk to in the middle of the night. He was a hyper dog. He went 100 percent the whole time we were together," Blincow said. "I bought him from the county for $1 and sent him back to Kansas.'

Justice was working part time in Kansas. Blincow believes he is now fully retired.

As Blincow settles in, he is hoping to recover the peripheral vision in his right eye, the result of a stroke he had in March.

Last week, he had plans to go fishing, but that changed when his wife said his retirement party was Thursday.

"My wife and one of the dispatchers did that to me," he said.

Thayer Central headed up by new coach

Hebron Journal-Register

Thayer Central head football coach Jereme Jones knew Johnson-Brock would be a serious contender.

The Titan opponent in Friday night's opening game of the season qualified for the playoffs last year.

"They returned every starter from last year. They are one of the better teams in the class," he said. Johnson-Brock won 42-0.

It was an evening for firsts. Thayer Central played its first game as a Class-D1, 8-man team and it was the first night Jones took the field as head coach. He is also teaching business at the high school.

Jones hails from St. Edward, where he coached a 6-man team. Prior to that, he was with an 8-man team in Thedford.

"It's a lot different game from 6man to 8-man. On 6-man, everyone is eligible for a pass and the quarterback can't run," Jones said. "It's been a bit of an adjustment."

Jones hasn't coached 8-man since 2007, but 10 returning starters and a solid group of seniors make it easy, he said.

He said the team will work on building its program and vision.

Thayer Central Head Coach Jereme Jones (right) leads his first game on the home field Friday.

"They have great attitudes and they're good listeners. They're open to suggestions and changes," he said.

For now, the program will start many of the younger players and make sure they have field time this

Jones led his St. Edward team to state runner-up last year, finishing with an 8-3 season. His overall record over nine years was 41-40.

He also took St. Edward to the state playoffs in 2008, where the team finished as state runner-up.

Jones was at St. Edward about nine years and said some years, he only had nine or 10 players on the

"From workforce and housing shortages, to taxes and government mandates, the business community has had its share of challenges. But there is also much reason for optimism. These forums give local leaders a chance to tell the chamber what's on their minds, while gaining more insight into the factors helping and hurting Nebraska businesses,' Nebraska Chamber President Barry Kennedy said.

The state chamber is Nebraska's largest statewide business community and has been since 1912. The chamber is a state affiliate of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

The Prof. Thomas, hypnotist, who has been giving entertainments here this week, left this morning for Geneva. Owing to a failure to find good subjects the first night, they did not meet with much success. Last night the young people of Hebron gathered in Fletcher's hall, where an exhibition was given. # Report sick or dead deer

Hunters are asked to report observations of sick or dead deer to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission as they head afield this September.

Each summer, the Commission monitors for signs of diseased deer; reports from the public help track incidents. Deer populations in Nebraska have been healthy across most areas and last year's harvest resulted in near-record numbers.

Few cases of sick deer have been reported so far this year. However, incidences of epizootic hemorrhagic disease (EHD) are suspected in Cedar County in northeastern Nebraska, where approximately 15 dead deer have been recently discovered. South Dakota Game, Fish and Parks recently confirmed a white-tailed deer with EHD in the southeastern part that state. Commission staff will continue to collect samples for testing and confirming cause of the death.

EHD historically has occurred in the state since the 1970s, peaking in 2012. EHD normally occurs in late August to early September, when hot and dry conditions exist. Because the disease is spread by biting insects, it usually does not persist much beyond the first frost.

The disease poses little threat to cattle and no problems for humans. Deer killed by EHD often are found near water to counteract fever and sometimes show evidence of bleeding from the eyes, nose or mouth.

More information about EHD and other wildlife diseases can be found at: OutdoorNebraska.gov/Wildlife-Diseases/. The Commission will continue to track and test deer for diseases throughout the fall.

The public should report sick or dead deer to one of the following Commission offices: Alliance, 308-763-2940; North Platte, 308-535-8025; Kearney, 308-865-5310; Bassett, 402-684-2921; Norfolk, 402-370-3374; and Lincoln, 402-471-0641.

Not all self-braking cars designed to stop

New test results from AAA reveal that automatic emergency braking systems—the safety technology that will soon be standard equipment on 99 percent of vehicles vary widely in design and performance.

These systems are designed to automatically apply a vehicle's brakes if it determines a collision is imminent. Some systems are designed to mitigate crash severity by reducing vehicle speed, while others are designed to avoid a crash altogether when possible.

All the systems tested by AAA are designed to apply the brakes when a driver fails to engage, however, those that are designed to prevent crashes reduced vehicle speeds by nearly twice that of those designed to lessen crash

While any reduction in speed offers a significant safety benefit to drivers, AAA warns that since automatic braking systems are not all designed to prevent collisions, consumers should fully understand their vehicle's capabilities and limitations before purchasing a new vehicle.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, rear-end collisions, which automatic emergency braking systems are designed to mitigate, result in nearly 2,000 fatalities and more than 500,000 injuries annually.

Currently, ten percent of new vehicles have automatic emergency braking as standard equipment, and more than half of new vehicles offer the feature as an option.

For its potential to reduce crash severity, 22 automakers representing 99 percent of vehicles sales have committed to making automatic emergency braking systems standard on all new vehicles by 2022.

Better information means better health care

Providers who use electronic health records (EHR) report tangible improvements in their ability to make better decisions with more comprehensive information. EHR adoption can give health care providers:

Accurate and complete information about a patient's health. This enables providers to give the best possible care, whether during a routine office visit or in a medical emergency, by providing the information they need to evaluate a patient's current condition in the context of the patient's health history and other treatments.

The ability to quickly provide care. In a crisis, EHRs provide instant access to information about a patient's medical history, allergies, and medications. This can enable providers to make decisions sooner, instead of waiting for information from test results.

- The ability to better coordinate the care they give. This is especially important if a patient has a serious or chronic medical condition, such as diabetes.

- A way to share information with patients and their family caregivers. This means patients and their families can more fully take part in decisions about their health care.

The main goal of health information technology is to improve the quality and safety of patient care. The promise of a fully realized EHRs is having a single record that includes all of a patient's health information: a record that is up to date, complete, and accurate. This puts providers in a better position to work with their patients to make good decisions.

EHRs can also:

 Flag potentially dangerous drug interactions (to help prescribing doctors explore alternatives before a problem

- Verify medications and dosages (to ensure that pharmacists dispense the right

- Reduce the need for potentially risky tests and procedures. - Improve patient billing through automated order entry,

- Improved patient care due to evidence-based practice for Core Measures documentation and coding

- Single architecture across both acute and ambulatory care venues

- Better outcomes from the most current patient health information being available when providing critical care.

Health care is a team effort and works best when information can be shared. Patients, their families and providers all benefit when everyone involved in a patient's care can communicate effectively and efficiently. The Nation's health and economy benefit as well.

EHR adoption requires investment of time and money, but the benefits often outweigh the costs, and financial incentives are available to help providers make the transition.

To help with the cost, Thayer County Health Services is taking advantage of federal incentives available to help cover the cost of implementing their new EHR system from Cerner Corporation.

Cerner provides Critical Access Hospitals with a comprehensive suite of solutions and services to support quality patient care and increase operational efficiency.

Cerner appreciates the unique challenges smaller hospitals face in providing essential health care services.

This new system will allow Thayer County Health Services to connect with other healthcare partners; hospitals, clinics, physician, home health organizations, and others to share information and provide their patients with the best care possible.

to honor those who lost their lives and the heroes who responded following the tragic events of Sept.11. Two ways to participate in 9/11 Day are to volunteer or donate blood or platelets with the Red Cross and help ensure blood is available for patients in need.

This year marks the 15th anniversary of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Each year tens of millions of Americans and people around the world observe the anniversary of 9/11 by performing good deeds that help people and communities in need.

9/11 Day was launched in 2002 as an annual day of service to honor the victims and heroes of Sept. 11. Since then, the observance has evolved into the largest annual day of charitable engagement in the U.S. and was designated as a National Day of Service and Remembrance by the U.S.

Congress in 2009. Jay S. Winuk, co-founder of 9/11 Day, lost his brother Glenn in the Sept. 11 attacks. Glenn J. Winuk, an attorney with the law firm Holland & Knight in downtown Manhattan, served as a volunteer firefighter and EMT for almost 20 years. After helping evacuate the Holland & Knight offices where he was a partner, he raced to the nearby World Trade Center's south tower to participate in the rescue efforts. He died in the line of duty when that tower collapsed - a first response medical kit was found by his side.

"The growth of this observance from a grassroots initiative into the nation's largest day of charitable engagement speaks directly to the true compassionate nature of mil-

"With its engagement in 9/11 Day, the Red Cross will make a significant impact, and we're confident that blood donors, volunteers and organizations from coastto-coast will answer this call for help while honoring the heroes of 9/11."

Every two seconds someone in the U.S. needs blood, so regular donations are needed. Blood and platelet donors of all types are urged to give.

"The Red Cross is proud to support 9/11 Day and empower members of our communities to give blood and volunteer to commemorate this anniversary while making a profound contribution to community preparedness," said Donna M. Morrissey, director of national partnerships, Red Cross Biomedical Services. "Giving the gift of life to someone else is a way to continue the healing process in the face of tragic circumstances most Americans couldn't imagine before that day."

Those who would like to observe 9/11 Day by donating blood or platelets are encouraged to make an appointment to give at one of the following locations:

Game and Parks, UNL to survey hunter's about public land use

This fall the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and the Nebraska Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit at the University of Nebraska will survey hunters who use public lands in Nebraska. Beginning Sept. 1, hunters at wildlife management areas or private lands enrolled in the Open Fields and Waters program may be approached by UNL researchers or Game and Park staff, who will ask a series of questions about their hunting experiences. Game and Parks will use insights gained from the surveys to improve opportunities and access on existing public hunting lands, as well as to help guide future land purchases.

Hunters' participation in the survey is voluntary, but they are encouraged to share their experiences and opinions.

"Hunters are important conservation partners, and we want to ensure that they have ample hunting opportunities in Nebraska," said Karie Decker, acting wildlife division administrator for Game and Parks. "Learning more about how hunters use and perceive public lands is a critical component of making sure our hunters have quality places to hunt." The research is funded by a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Wildlife Restoration Grant administered by Game and Parks. More information on the project is available at http://fishhunt.unl.edu/.

Titans open season, fall to Eagles on home gridiron

By Jereme Jones Thayer Central Football

As a new head coach, your first game always comes quicker than you'd like. Putting in new schemes takes time, and it takes even more time to become efficient at running them.

This season is even a little more challenging at Thayer Central, as we have a coach moving up from 6-man and a team dropping down from 11-man.

This has caused us all to change not only our schemes, but also changes in how to play positions and some of the basic roles.

The challenge, however, is what makes it exciting for me as a coach. Not just the challenge of new schemes, but also the challenge of changing the culture and trying to build this program into something special.

Friday night, we had our first chance to measure where we are against a very good Johnson-Brock team.

Johnson-Brock began with the ball, but were quickly held to a three and out by the Titan defense and forced to punt.

Thayer Central took over at their own 15-yard line. The Beavers put together two first downs on their initial drive, including a fourth down conversion.

Unfortunately, the Titan offense then bogged down and was forced to punt.

The Eagles made it to the scoreboard quickly on their next possession, with a 34yard touchdown pass from Trey Stutheit to Ty Hahn to make it 6-0 in favor of Johnson-Brock.

Thayer Central would be held to a three and out and be forced to give the ball right back to the Eagles.

The Eagles were then held to a three and out on the ensuing possession, as senior Ryan Koch hit Stutheit on third down, forcing an incompletion.

After the first quarter, the Eagles led 6-0. The Titans began the second quarter by again being forced to punt after an initial first down. Thayer Central then stepped up big on defense, denying the Eagles on a fourth down attempt on the Titans 11-yard line.

The Titans picked up a first down on their next drive, but were forced to punt after a penalty up them in a second and long situation.

The Eagles put together a long drive on the next possession, picking up a fourth and one conversion and then scoring on a three-yard touchdown run by Devon Clark.

Johnson-Brock made the conversion and went on top

The Eagles would score on defense on the next possession, tackling the Titans in the end zone for a safety.

Then, on the ensuing kickoff, Johnson-Brock's Ty Hahn returned the kick 44 yards for a touchdown.

The conversion made it 24-0. After another three and out and a punt by Thayer Central, Johnson-Brock scored again on a 44-yard pass from Stutheit to Hahn to make it 30-0.

The Titans picked up a first down on their next drive, but then fumbled to give the Eagles one more possession in the half.

Johnson-Brock capitalized with a 24-yard pass from Stutheit to Jaxon Balm, making it 36-0 at the half.

The Titans began the second half with the ball but were held to a quick three and out. Johnson-Brock would score on the next drive, on a two-yard run by Clark, making it 42-0.

Thayer Central would throw an interception on the next drive, but the Titans defense stopped the Eagles on the nine-yard line to get the ball back. The Titans would punt on their final possession of the quarter.

The Titans again stopped the Eagles on fourth down on the first possession of the fourth quarter.

Thayer Central put together a couple first downs, but was stopped short on a fourth down conversion attempt.

The game would end with both teams' back-ups trading possessions. Final score: Johnson-Brock

42, Thayer Central 0. The Titans were led offensively by senior Dietric Kenning, who rushed for 55 yards on 16 carries and caught 7 passes for 5 yards.

Junior Max Madsen was 11/23 passing for 22 yards and an interception.

Junior Seth Mumford caught 2 passes for 14 yards, senior Preston Reece caught 2 passes for 3 yards, and sophomore Jarod Hergott caught 1 pass for 9 yards.

Defensively, Mumford led the way with 9 tackles.

Freshman Jackson Feulner and senior Hank Harris both added 5 tackles.

Sophomore Zach Koss had 5 tackles, while Preston Reece and sophomore Keith Hergott both had 4 tackles.

Other tacklers included senior Ryan Koch (3), Kenning (3), Jarod Hergott (2), junior Tim Schulte (2), sophomore Shevin Solomon (1), junior Branden Fangmeier (1) and senior Kyle Kugel (1).

While this isn't exactly how I had hoped my first game as Titans head coach would go, I did see a lot of good things from our team.

We were able to have some success moving the ball on offense and made some good stops on defense. The first quarter was a great start, we just had a couple of bad plays in the second quarter and let it snowball on us.

I didn't see anything on Friday night that we can't improve over the course of the season.

One thing I've been very happy about with this group of young men is their ability to accept coaching and make adjustments, so I am sure they will rise to the occasion this week and work harder than ever to improve.

We have thrown a lot at them in the first three weeks of the season, now we just have to continue to tweak and improve on our fundamentals, plays and formations.

Building a new culture and overhauling is not a three week project; we will continue to work towards our vision every day.

This week, we host the Tri County Trojans. The Trojans enter the game 1-0, after defeating Superior 28-12.

Tri County is considered one of the favorites in Class D1 and have an excellent senior running back, Colby Ensz, who rushed for 1,800 yards

The Trojans will give us a much different look than Johnson-Brock, preferring to line up in power formations and run the ball. I am looking forward to a great week of practice to face this challenge. Kickoff is at 7pm Friday night; I hope you will all be there and be loud.

Jarod Hergott moves in on Johnson-Brock at Friday's opening game on the home field.

Dietric Kenning (left) led the Titans, rushing for 55 yards on 16 carries. He caught seven passes for five yards. No. 9 Max Madsen snatched an interception from Johnson Brock.

Titan Preston Reece clinches the ball while Johnson-Brock applies the heat.

Thomas Mick was stopped by Osceola, but managed three touchdowns and two PATs to contribute to the Eagle 72-42 win.

Eagles own opponents in first season game

BruningDavenportShickley opened their season with a 72-42 win against Osceola on Bruning's field.

Junior Garret Schardt returned a kickoff 78 yards for one of his two touchdowns, Coach Chris Ardissono said. His second touchdown was on an interception for 50 yards.

"Both touchdowns by Garrett was tremendous momentum changers in our favor," Ardissono said.

Junior Thomas Mick scored three touchdowns for the Eagles and two PATs. Rushing 223 yards was Senior Kale Kleinschmidt for five touchdowns. He also had two PATs. Sophomore John Christensen and Junior Holden Stengel each caught a PAT as well.

"Our kids work very hard and try very hard," Coach Mark Rotter said. "At times, our inexperience really showed and we will learn a lot from this game."

Ardissono said Junior Kellen Reinsch, who started as offensive center for the first time, had a solid game.

Kleinschmidt and Senior Noel Gines each passed for On tackles, Junior Caden Norder went 13 as did Stengel and Mick.

Gines had 11 tackles and Christensen and Kleinschmidt, 10 each.

Eagle Kale Kleinschmidt steps over an Osceola player as he makes his way down the field. Kleinschmidt rushed 223 yards for five touchdowns and had two PATs.

Titan volleyball shaping up In the end, it all came down to

Returning to lead the Ladv Titan volleyball team this year are Kenidee Miller, Jena Cottam and Emily Welch.

Miller, a senior, made the 2nd Team All Conference last year; Cottam was Honorable Mention All Conference as a sophomore; and Welch, First Team All Conference and Honorable Mention Class C-2

All-State. Head Coach Amy Harris, who is new this year to Thayer Central, but not coaching, sees a young, 16-member team with a lot

"Every single one of them knows their stuff," she said. She replaces Mary Hagemann, who has taken a position with Southeast Community College in Beatrice. Harris likes scrimmages during practice.

"It's an extremely worthwhile part of practice because both sides of the net are so evenly matched," she said.

The second team then pushes the first team to improve on an even court.

Harris is returning to coaching after 10 years. "It wasn't an easy decision.

with," she said. She was a coach at the high school level in Kansas for 15

the kids I would be working years with eight of those years as head coach. Harris was also a high school English teacher.

At Thayer Central, her role is accompanist for the music department in addition to coaching.

The first game will be at home against Tri-County Sept. 1, beginning at 5 p.m. Varsity takes the court at approximately 6:30 p.m.

Lady Eagles return

The Lady Eagles have shifted into unfamiliar territory by switching positions.

"We will be a little inexperienced as we start the year, however, don't count us out at the end," Coach Kari Jo Alfs said.

The Bruning Davenport Shickley volleyball team returns with starters, Senior Courtney Kamler, Juniors Carley Elznic and Megan Grote, and Sophomore Jadyn Kleinschmidt.

Kamler is a setter and good at racking up points. Elznic is the hitter on the outside, along with Grote. Kleinschmidt was a dominate server last year and was libero her freshman vear.

The up and coming Eagles are Senior Morgan Lowery, who is a defensive specialist and Senior Mashaya Dierking, who is looking to fill a hole as a middle hitter.

The Lady Eagles have a tough schedule and went 24-7 last year. Their first game will be Sept. 1 at Hampton for a triangular with Exeter-Milligan included.
