Community chips in to help provide toys for Christmas

When area organizations sponsor events to help out Thayer County families, they rely on the community to help them. Two area organizations did that this Christmas season, and the community responded.

The Hebron Volunteer Fire Department was one of the organizations that aimed to help area kids this Christmas season. This group sponsored a toy drive. They set up drop offs at the Hebron Dollar General and at the primary school. In addition to that, they even had a time set up to donate toys prior to the Elementary Vocal Concert. The fire department provided the place and the community helped fill the need.

"People were very generous," said Hebron fireman Justin Johnson. "We were able to collect 50 toys this year."

Throughout the month of December, the fire department was able to collect those toys along with additional monetary donations. The toys collected during this time were distributed to Thayer County families with some help by Blue Valley Community Action.

Cargill in Carleton also had their own way of helping out local kids. For the fourth year, employees at Cargill helped set up an "angel tree." This tree was adorned with tags that included a list of needed items for Thayer and Fillmore County children.

"The first year we did this we had around 40 tags," said Krissy Ozenbaugh. "But this year we had 97 tags."

Community members could come in and pick up a tag and then were asked to purchase one or as many items as they wished. Gifts

This week we review January through June

Each year the Hebron Journal-Register takes a look back as we prepare to head into another year of news worthy events. This week marks an end-of-the-year tradition as we begin our look back at 2013. In the first of two parts, we'll take a look at some of the happenings that occurred from January to June. Next week, we'll present the rest of the story (July through December).

January

The year began with new leader-

The superintendent of the brick yard has arrived. The Hebron fire company will probably be reorganized.

The town board of Alexandria has ordered a calaboose built.

A railroad war of vast proportions will soon be inaugurated.

The Journal in the near future will be printed on a cylinder press.

An application for a saloon license by J.W. Crawford at Belvidere has been filed.

A.J. Barlow of Belvidere precinct, reports having received a number of letters from old neighbors in Illinois, who complain bitterly of poor crops there and propose moving to this county as soon as they can perfect arrangements to that effect.

On account of several days of disagreeable weather the track layers have not progressed with their work as rapidly as the impatient citizens of this place desired. The track is now laid to within a short distance of Spring Creek, and it is thought the construction train will arrive at the Little Blue by Saturday. Next week will, very probably, witness the arrival of the first train in Hebron.

Rarely has it been our good fortune to attend more enjoyable festivities than the Christmas party given by Mrs. Jane Studley at her home on Dry Creek. The genial sociability and good-nature prevailing afforded a happy contrast to the stiff formalities of more conventional gatherings. The efforts of the hostess to make her guests happy met with brilliant success. The banquet was all that could be desired. Happy recollections of the occasion will linger long in the memories of the 90 guests who attended.

One of the monopolies most injurious to the development of western agricultural interests is the barbed wire monopoly.

There are now 11 widows on Dry Creek. Old man Weller's injunction in Charles Dicken's Pickwick Club, "Samivel, becare of vidders" will not apply in this case for these 11 widows are said to be so innocent that no one need to have any fear of matrimonial machinations on their part.

Sheriff Thompson arrested two railroad men for fighting in Green's stable. Justice Hendershot fined the guilty parties $5 and costs each. On refusing to pay their fines, they were sent to jail four days. On being released, they both left for new fields of glory.

Belvidere

The grandest social event of the season was the phantom party at the residence of J.L. Hole, our well-known and genial merchant, on Christmas night.

Charles Kinney, C.F. Moore's miller, informs us that they are having a good run of work, having more than they can do under the present moderate winds. Mr. Moore, we are informed, thinks of adding steam power.

There being a misunderstanding between our informant and ourself, our article of the death of Mrs. Rasher, should have been the mother, instead of the wife of our liveryman.

Dr. McCaw is fitting up the rooms of adjoining the drug store for an office.

Skating parties on the river have been numerous and red-cheeked.

J.D. Garmire has built a skating rink on the vacant lots west of Young, Knode & Co.'s hardware store. He made a slight excavation, has fenced it with a high board fence and will flood the excavation with water from the hydrant. The rink is about a quarter-block in extent.

From the Lincoln State Journal: Mrs. Charity Alexander, mother of ex-Secretary of State, S.J. Alexander, died, aged 80 years. Mrs. Alexander's family figured prominently in the early history of Nebraska and the town of Alexandria derives its name from that source. Mrs. Alexander settled with her husband, Isaac Alexander, on the Big Sandy about a half mile east from the present town site of Alexandria in 1859.

George E. Lewis has opened a general notion store in the third building west of the First National Bank.

If the spring-like weather continues much longer, daisies will bloom, frogs will join in a rollicking chorus and J.F. Gates will go fishing.

The proud father of the Carlyle twins of Belvidere called in and wanted to know if it was too late to claim the reward for twins born three months ago. He was informed that the statute of limitation did not apply. Whereupon The Journal was sent free to him one year for his public spirit and liberality. He said a number of neighbors had been trying to follow his example, and had come within one of it.

Attention is called to the new professional card of Marshall & McCuiston lawyers, Hebron. The senior member, Thos. Marshall, has a wide acquaintance, having been county attorney and democratic district central committeeman. The junior member is Jno. T. McCuiston and he is an ardent Republican.

We understand that Thos. Harp and family intend returning to Oregon soon, where their daughter resides and will make that state their future home.

Wm. Urquhart has started up a pool hall in the basement of the Howard House.

Davenport

Born to Mr. and Mrs. B.M. Cooper, twin boys, and to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Burstadt, two ten pound boys.

Gilead

The hardware stock of Conner Bros., will be removed to Alexander. This leaves a good opening for a hardware store at Gilead.

Mr. Isaac Connor will run a feed mill and meat market at the old stand.

Gilead's office building or "the building on wheels" has again been moved. It now occupies a conspicuous place near the new elevator, and will be used by S.R. Moss.

U.S.D.A. Conservation Stewardship Program

Nebraska landowners and operators have until January 17, 2014, to sign up for the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) at their local USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office. CSP is a voluntary program that provides financial and technical assistance to help farmers and ranchers conserve and enhance soil, water, air, and related natural resources on their agricultural and forestry land.

CSP applications are accepted at any time. However, only applications received by the January 17 cutoff date will be considered for the current ranking and funding period.

Craig Derickson, NRCS state conservationist in Nebraska, encourages Nebraska farmers and ranchers to not miss out on this opportunity.

"The Conservation Stewardship Program is unique. CSP participants will receive an annual land use payment for the environmental benefits they produce on their operations. Under CSP, participants are paid for conservation performance - the higher the operational performance, the higher their payment," Derickson said.

According to Derickson, CSP has been a very successful program for Nebraska's farmers and ranchers. Over 2,000 CSP contracts occur in all 93 counties and cover 4.8 million acres in Nebraska.

"CSP is popular in Nebraska because farmers and ranchers don't have to take land out of production to participate. CSP helps conserve natural resources on working lands. Keeping land in production while protecting natural resources creates a win-win for all Nebraskans. CSP makes it possible to produce crops and livestock while also improving water quality, soil health and wildlife habitat," Derickson said.

CSP is available statewide to individual landowners, legal entities, and Indian tribes. Eligible land includes cropland, grassland, prairie, improved pastureland, non-industrial private forestland, and agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe. Contracts are set at five years and include all the land controlled by an operator.

For more information about CSP, including eligibility requirements and a self-screening checklist, producers can visit <http://www.ne.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/CSP.html> or stop by their local NRCS field office.

Yoachim Inducted into Honor Society

The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi is pleased to announce that Courtney Yoachim of Hebron was recently initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, the nation's oldest and most selective collegiate honor society for all academic disciplines. Yoachim was initiated at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Graduate students in the top 10 percent of the number of candidates for graduate degrees may also qualify, as do faculty, professional staff, and alumni who have achieved scholarly distinction.

Founded in 1897 at the University of Maine and headquartered in Baton Rouge, La., Phi Kappa Phi is the nation's oldest and most selective all-discipline honor society. The Society has chapters on more than 300 college and university campuses in North America and the Philippines. Its mission is "To recognize and promote academic excellence in all fields of higher education and to engage the community of scholars in service to others."

The angel tree and toy drive weren't the only opportunities to help out this season. There are many area organizations that aim help during the holiday season. Although these opportunities may differ in name, they all have a common goal: helping out area families and kids.

New Year - New You

The holidays will soon be over and what better time than the new year to focus on your health. The following are 16 tips from WebMD gives for staying healthy in the New Year:

1. Stepped-Up Breast Health - What's the best way to reduce your risk of breast cancer? Start walking. Studies show cardio exercise combined with diet can reduce the risk of breast cancer.

2. Family Fit Fun - Between 16 percent and 33 percent of youth in the United States are overweight or obese. If possible, make fitness a family affair.

3. Adult Time-Outs - When your relationships reach a breaking point, take a break to keep it from getting out of control. Hold the discussion after you have both cooled off.

4. Oral Report - More than 40 percent of Americans avoid the dentist. We should all have regular cleanings and exams. Dentist also screen for oral cancer, which is twice as high in men.

5. Order in the House - To reduce stress, get a handle on your life. Try using Sunday nights to plan your week with your family. A great tip is to also plan time to relax too.

6. Smoke Out - If you do smoke, stop; if you don't smoke, don't start; and avoid all types of tobacco, including secondhand smoke. Talk to your doctor to find the right solution for you.

7. Best Shot - Both young and old should get current on your vaccinations. An important one is for young women to get vaccinated against the HPV virus. This vaccine can help prevent infections that may cause cervical cancer.

8. Pap Power - All women 21 or older should schedule a yearly Pap smear to help detect cervical cancer.

9. Cancer Control - Starting at age 50, getting screened for colorectal cancer should be at the top of your to-do list.

10. Lovely Bones - Women should eat foods rich in calcium. If you're older than 65, schedule a bone mineral density test, which will help your doctor measure the strength of your bones.

11. Balanced Diet - If you are among the 70 percent of Americans attempting a diet in 2014, the key is "don't starve yourself". Instead, set a six-month plan that includes eating well and exercising.

12. Eye Spy - Less than 30 percent of us get our eyes checked regularly. The result is 3 million Americans living with undiagnosed glaucoma. Adults between 40 and 50 should get screened.

13. Men's Health - Know what tests you need annually; testicular exam starting after puberty, prostate-specific antigen (PSA) test after age 50. Track your cholesterol and blood pressure. Start a healthy diet plan and exercise regularly.

14. Tan Ban - Over 90 percent of skin cancers are caused by sun exposure. Use sun screen and watch for new moles or changes in existing moles. Annually have your skin examined by your doctor.

15. Get Your Sleep - 39 of Americans get less than 7 hours of sleep a night. Sleeping 7 to 9 hours a night can reduce your risk of diabetes, heart problems, and accidents.

16. Flu Fight - The flu shot is not just for those individuals at high risk. It is recommended for everyone.

Your Guide To A Perfect Wedding
BRIDAL BOUTIQUE
Tips for Newlyweds About to Merge Finances
Newlyweds often have a lot on their plates upon returning from their honeymoons. One of the more critical issues newly married couples must address is their finances and how those finances will be combined going forward.
Combining finances can be a touchy subject for many couples, especially those who had not given much thought to their finances prior to tying the knot. But there are steps couples can take to make the process of merging finances go more smoothly.
* Discuss finances early and often. Allowing finances to be the elephant in the room is a mistake, as couples do not want to begin their lives together trading lightly around an issue as significant as finances. Couples should discuss their expenditures and spending habits as early as possible, as one of the biggest hurdles newly married couples must clear is coming to grips with one another's financial habits. If such habits have already been discussed, then developing a financial plan will be much easier once that time comes. When discussing finances, define both short-term and long-term goals and how each of you can adjust your spending habits to make those goals come true.
* Pay off any debts. The cost of weddings has skyrocketed over the last several decades, and many newlyweds find themselves in a considerable amount of debt upon returning from their honeymoons. When merging finances, couples should prioritize paying down such debt, as debt is a significant source of stress for newlyweds and long-married couples alike. Newly married couples with little or no debt should avoid spending above their means in the months after they get married. Such spending is commonplace, as newly married couples often want to fully furnish their new homes or reward themselves for pulling off their weddings. But new debt can be just as stressful on a marriage as debt from the wedding, so avoid this potentially problematic pitfall by paying down existing debts with your newly merged finances.
* Make note of mutual expenses and open a joint account to pay for those expenses. Mutual expenses like mortgage payments, food and utilities should be the responsibility of each partner, and a joint account should be established to handle such expenses. When opening a joint account, discuss how much and how often each partner will contribute money. One partner might earn considerably more money than another, so work out a reasonable agreement that details how much each partner will contribute each month, and whether such contributions will be made on a weekly, bi-weekly or monthly basis.
* Make concessions for one another. When merging finances, couples often discover that they don't see eye-to-eye on how each person spends money. Couples who successfully merge their finances often note the importance of making concessions with regard to their partners' spending on certain hobbies or luxuries. As long as those hobbies are not putting couples in debt or jeopardizing their financial goals, couples can make concessions so their partners continue to be happy and enjoy their favorite activities.
Merging finances is an issue that looms for many newlyweds or couples about to tie the knot. Though it's not always easy, merging finances early and discussing goals can ensure newlyweds get off on the right financial foot.

Farm Finance Planning Clinic

Farmers and ranchers are invited to attend a free clinic in Fairbury on January 8. The clinics are one-on-one, not group sessions, and are confidential. The Farm Finance clinic gives you a chance to meet with an experienced agriculture law attorney and agriculture financial counselor. These clinic staff specialize in legal and financial issues related to farming and ranching, included financial planning, estate and transition planning, farm loan programs, debtor/creditor law, water rights, and other relevant matters. Here is an opportunity to obtain an experienced outside opinion on issues that may be affecting your farm or ranch. Bring your questions.

To sign up for a clinic or for more information, call Michelle at the Nebraska Farm Hotline (1-800-464-0258).

County Official Graduates from Leadership Training

Stacey McLaughlin, Thayer County Clerk of the District Court was awarded a certificate by UNL Extension Associate Dean, Dr. Rick Koelsch and NACO President and Hayes County Commissioner, Leon Kolbet.

Forty-two county officials from 31 counties received Certificates of Achievement for their participation in the Nebraska Association of County Officials (NACO) Institute of Excellence.

The officials were honored during a presentation at NACO's annual conference in Omaha on December 13.

The Institute of Excellence is a collaboration between NACO and the University of Nebraska. It provides leadership development for elected and appointed county officials.

The institute includes face-to-face workshops and online training. The workshops are presented in North Platte and Lincoln. The 2013 sessions were taught by faculty from University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension, the UNL Department of Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication and the UNO Centers for Public Affairs Research and Collaboration Sciences, as well as NACO leaders. According to the program's co-coordinator, UNL Extension Educator, Carroll Welte, "the Institute provides county officials an opportunity to learn more about themselves as leaders to better serve their constituencies."

Since 2010 the Institutes of Excellence have been open to all county officials. Information and registration materials for the 2014 program will be on the Nebraska Association of County Officials website, nacone.org in early January. For more information about UNL Extension leadership programs, contact educators Carroll Welte at (402) 374-2929 or Phyllis Schoenholz at (402) 768-7212.

Prellwitz Attends State Workshop

Karen Prellwitz, Thayer County Treasurer, attended a two and one half day conference conducted in Omaha, December 11-13, for Nebraska county officials.

The annual conference, attended by approximately 800 county officials and employees, is part of a continuing education and leadership development series sponsored by the Nebraska Association of County Officials.

The conference updated county officials on recent changes in state laws and provided extensive training on the responsibilities of their respective offices.

William B. Hess Athletic Fund presents gift

Written by: Pat Kenner
A gift of $2,000 was presented from the William B. Hess Athletic Endowment Fund to Thayer Central Community School's Superintendent Drew Harris this week. The funds were given to be used for future additions to Thayer Central's athletic complex. Mr. Harris indicated that gifts such as this one help the school to offer our youth quality education complemented with safe and current facilities. The William B. Hess Athletic Endowment was formed by Mr. Hess's family in 2006. Bill Hess was a graduate of Hebron High School in 1943. While Bill's career didn't keep him in Hebron, his heart never wandered too far from his roots, and he loved returning for his alumni reunions. Bill's wife Sally and son David and wife Kristi have continued to remember their husband and father with annual gifts to this fund. Many friends also contributed memorials in Bill's memory to this fund. The Hess fund is an endowed fund established through the Hebron Community Fund, an affiliated fund of the Nebraska Community Foundation (NCF). The earnings from the fund were designated to be used to support athletic programs for the school. To date this fund has been in the accumulation phase with the endowment growing. This distribution represents the first fruits of the endowment. Fund advisory committee member Pat Kenner expressed gratitude to the family and friends of Bill Hess for establishing this fund which will provide ongoing benefits to the youth of the Hebron area in the future. For more information about this fund or how to contribute to this or other Hebron Community Funds you may contact Pat at the Thayer County Bank or the Nebraska Community Foundation at 402-323-7330. The Nebraska Community Foundation is a charitable 501(c)(3) non-profit corporation, and all contributions are tax-deductible.

Mu Alpha Theta Students Take Field Trip...

Twenty-five Mu Alpha Theta students went to SAC Museum by Ashland to experience "MathAlive". MathAlive is a traveling exhibit from the Smithsonian sponsored in part by Raytheon. Designed for families and students, the exhibit brings to life the real math behind what kids love most - video games, sports, fashion, music, robotics and more. It's designed to inspire, to spark the imagination, to reveal not only math at work, but the endless possibilities of math. It helps to answer the question, "When am I ever going to use this?" The students were sponsored by high school math instructors, Deb Bulin and Kristy Lukert.
