Embracing matters of the Heart

By Jacque Rocole
Hebron Journal-Register

Hypoplastic left heart syndrome: That's a pretty scary medical term in itself, let alone when it's associated with a baby that hasn't even been born yet. It's also a scary medical term even if you're a registered nurse who knows what it means, let alone an expectant mother hearing it for the first time.

And, it's a term that's rarely used given the condition or syndrome itself is quite rare, so when medical physicians tell expectant parents their newborn has it, lots and lots of questions arise...even if you are a nurse.

Spencer and Ranae Vorderstrasse of Hebron found out in her first ultra-sound that their baby's heart was not developing properly. "I was 26 weeks along and after the ultra sound our doctor told us the baby had hypoplastic left heart syndrome," Ranae, who is a registered nurse at Thayer County Health Services, explains. "The left side of his heart was smaller than the right and he was missing a valve."

It means the left side of the heart is unable to do its job properly, it is unable to send enough blood to the body. As a result, the right side of the heart must maintain the circulation for both the lungs and the body. The right side can do the job for awhile, but the extra work load eventually causes the right side of the heart to fail. The only possibility of survival is a connection between the right and left side of the heart, which means surgery. "Surgery makes the right side of the heart do what the left side is supposed to do," Ranae said and added, "He'll have three surgeries."

Spencer and Ranae were immediately sent to Lincoln obstetrician and gynecologist Dr. Sean P. Kenney who specializes in maternal-fetal medicine, to monitor the rest of her pregnancy. They also met pediatric cardiologist Dr. Ameeta B. Martin who would do the follow-up after surgery. Dr. James Hammel performed of life and generally consists of building a new aorta. "Alex had a partial Norwood," Ranae explains. "Instead of building a new aorta, a band was placed around the pulmonary artery to make it a little smaller and then they were able to make the aorta bigger. Alex's aorta was bigger than most aortas in hypoplastic left heart syndrome, so he was able to use his aorta without having to put the pulmonary artery and the surgeries.

"Alex was born April 28," Ranae said, "and went in for surgery on May 2. We had his baptism at St. E's before he went to Children's Hospital for the surgery." Pastor Keith Brozek of Grace Lutheran Church in Hebron made a special trip to St. Elizabeth's hospital to perform the ceremony, she added.

According to the U.S. National Library of Medicine, the first surgery, called the Norwood operation, occurs within the baby's first few days aorta together."

Ranae said the pulmonary artery is banded to make more blood go to the body and less blood to the lungs. "Alex also had to have his tricuspid valve repaired, too" she said.

Afterwards, the baby usually goes home, takes daily medicines for circulation and is closely followed by a pediatric cardiologist who determines when the second stage of surgery should be done. "We were told we would be at the hospital for four to six weeks following the Norwood surgery," Ranae said, "but we were allowed to go home after only ten days. Alex recovered really well."

Ranae adds that they were in ICU for four days and moved to the fifth floor on May 6. "That's the good floor," she laughs. "It means you get to go home soon." She added that their anesthesiologist for the surgery was Dr. Kim Hissong, a local Hebron friend, and found the familiarity comforting during an emotionally trying time.

At home, Spencer and Ranae monitored Alex's oxygen, weight, medications and food intake in a special book and went for checkups every week for four months while they prepared for the second surgery.

According to the U.S. National Library of Medicine, stage II of the operation is called the Glenn shunt or hemi-Fontan procedure. This procedure connects the major vein carrying blue blood from the top half of the body directly to blood vessels to the lungs to get oxygen. The surgery is usually done when the child is four to six months of age.

Ranae said that since they didn't do a complete Norwood in the first surgery, the surgeon, in addition to the Glenn, had to go back and finish the Norwood during the second surgery. The procedure included connecting the pulmonary artery and aorta together to make one big aorta, take the band off the pulmonary artery and repair his tricuspid valve again.

"Alex did really well again," Ranae said. "We were supposed to be in the hospital for up to two weeks, but came home after eight days."

Ranae said they were able to take him off of the medications that made his heart pump right after the surgery, and although his blood pressure was a little high when he went home, the medication for that and a diuretic were removed after a week.

Today Alex is a healthy nearly ten-month old boy who is growing and developing right on schedule. He crawls, pulls himself up, and plays with his three-year-old brother Cole.

Certain precautions are taken, however, as Alex gets ready for his third surgery. "No daycare," Ranae said and added that respiratory infections are especially dangerous at this stage. Spencer, an agriculture engineer for Global Industries, works from home and is therefore able to stay with Alex during the days Ranae works.

Ranae said the third surgery will take place when Alex is two to three years old. The final step, called the Fontan procedure, will connect the rest of the veins that carry blue blood from the body directly to the blood vessels to the lungs. The right ventricle will then serve only as the pumping chamber for the body (no longer the lungs and the body).

She added that some patients may need more surgeries in their 20s or 30s if they develop hard to control arrhythmias from the Fontan procedure, but that most patients tend to lead a normal life. Certain precautions will always need to be taken, such as no contact sports, but for the most part, Alex should be able to live a healthy, normal life.

Ranae said she received caring and informative comfort from other parents going through the same experience; some she met in the hospital, others through online services. So much so, she offers her own comfort to those in need. "Anyone can talk to us about this," she says and smiles. "We're more than happy to share what we've learned and what to expect."

And after talking to them, anyone can see the couple has no trouble embracing matters of the heart...even when it comes to the scary ones.

Prevention and Treatment of High Cholesterol

Too much cholesterol in the blood can lead to cardiovascular disease. Cardiovascular disease is the No. 1 cause of death in the United States. 2,200 Americans die of cardiovascular disease each day, an average of one death every 39 seconds. The good news is, you can lower your cholesterol and reduce your risk of heart disease and stroke. Take responsibility for managing your cholesterol levels. Whether you've been prescribed medication or advised to make diet and lifestyle changes to help manage your cholesterol, carefully follow your doctor's recommendations.

Lifestyle Changes

Your diet, weight, physical activity and exposure to tobacco smoke all affect your cholesterol level — and these factors may be controlled by:

- eating a heart-healthy diet,
- enjoying regular physical activity, and
- avoiding tobacco smoke.

Know Your Fats

Knowing which fats raise LDL cholesterol and which ones don't is the first step in lowering your risk of heart disease.

Cooking for Lower Cholesterol

It's not hard to whip up recipes that fit with the low-saturated-fat, low-cholesterol eating plan recommended by scientists to help you manage your blood cholesterol level and reduce your risk of heart disease and stroke.

Understand Drug Therapy Options

For some people, lifestyle changes alone aren't enough to reach healthy cholesterol levels. Your doctor may prescribe medication. Learn about:

- types of cholesterol-lowering drugs
- tips for taking medications

Avoid Common Misconceptions

We have created a list of the common misconceptions, along with the true story, about cholesterol.

Work with Your Doctor

It takes a team to develop and maintain a successful health program. You and your healthcare professionals each play an important role in maintaining and improving your heart health. Know how to talk with your doctor about your cholesterol levels and be sure you understand all instructions. Follow your plan carefully, especially when it comes to medication — it won't work if you don't take it as directed. And learn how to make diet and lifestyle changes easy and lasting.

Why Blood Pressure Matters

Yes, uncontrolled high blood pressure can injure or kill you. It's sometimes called "the silent killer" because HBP has no symptoms, so you may not be aware that it's damaging your arteries, heart and other organs.

Possible health consequences that can happen over time when high blood pressure is left untreated include:

Damage to the heart and coronary arteries, including heart attack, heart disease, congestive heart failure, aortic dissection and atherosclerosis (fatty buildups in the arteries that cause them to harden)

- Stroke
- Kidney damage

- Vision loss
- Erectile dysfunction
- Memory loss
- Fluid in the lungs
- Angina

But remember, these are not symptoms of HBP. High blood pressure is a symptomless disease except in its most extreme cases known as hypertensive crisis. When BP readings rise to 180 or above for the systolic — top — number OR 110 or above for the diastolic — bottom — number, call for emergency medical treatment immediately.

Individuals whose blood pressure is higher than 140/90 mm Hg (140 systolic or above OR 90 diastolic or above) often become patients treated for serious cardiovascular problems.

• 77 percent of Americans treated for a first stroke have blood pressure over 140/90

• 69 percent of Americans who have a first heart attack have blood pressure over 140/90

• 74 percent of Americans with congestive heart failure have blood pressure over 140/90

Is your blood pressure increasing your risks for these serious medical problems? Use our risk calculator to learn your likelihood of heart attack, stroke, heart failure and kidney disease - and how simple changes can make a difference.

Your risk increases even more if you have high blood pressure along with other risk factors:

- Age
- Heredity (including race)
- Gender (male)
- Overweight or obesity
- Smoking
- High cholesterol
- Diabetes
- Physical inactivity

Through risk reduction and treatment of HBP, you can lower your risk for many of these diseases.

About Heart Failure

The term "heart failure" makes it sound like the heart is no longer working at all and there's nothing that can be done. Actually, heart failure means that the heart isn't pumping as well as it should be.

Your body depends on the heart's pumping action to deliver oxygen- and nutrient-rich blood to the body's cells. When the cells are nourished properly, the body can function normally.

With heart failure, the weakened heart can't supply the cells with enough blood. This results in fatigue and shortness of breath. Everyday activities such as walking, climbing stairs or carrying groceries can become very difficult.

Heart failure is a serious condition, and usually there's no cure. But many people with heart failure lead a full, enjoyable life when the condition is managed with medications and healthy lifestyle changes. It's also helpful to have the support of family and friends who understand your condition.

How the normal heart works

The normal healthy heart is a strong, muscular pump a little larger than a fist. It pumps blood continuously through the circulatory system.

The heart has four chambers, two on the right and two on the left:

- Two upper chambers called atria (one is an atrium)
- Two lower chambers called ventricles

Oxygen-rich blood travels from the lungs to the left atrium, then on to the left ventricle, which pumps it to the rest of the body.

The right atria takes in oxygen-depleted blood from the rest of the body and sends it back out to the lungs through the right ventricle.

The heart pumps blood to the lungs and to all the body's tissues by a sequence of highly organized contractions of the four chambers. For the heart to function properly, the four chambers must beat in an organized way.

What is heart failure?

Heart failure is a chronic, progressive condition in which the heart muscle is unable to pump enough blood through the heart to meet the body's needs for blood and oxygen. Basically, the heart can't keep up with its workload.

At first the heart tries to make up for this by:

- Enlarging. When the heart chamber enlarges, it stretches more and can contract more strongly, so it pumps more blood.
- Developing more muscle mass. The increase in muscle mass occurs because the contracting cells of the heart get bigger. This lets the heart pump more strongly, at least initially.
- Pumping faster. This helps to increase the heart's output.

The body also tries to compensate in other ways:

- The blood vessels narrow to keep blood pressure up, trying to make up for the heart's loss of power.
- The body diverts blood away from less important tissues and organs to maintain flow to the most vital organs, the heart and brain.

• These temporary measures mask the problem of heart failure, but they don't solve it. Heart failure continues and worsens until these substitute processes no longer work. Eventually the heart and body just can't keep up, and the person experiences the fatigue, breathing problems or other symptoms that usually prompt a trip to the doctor.

The body's compensation mechanisms help explain why some people may not become aware of their condition until years after their heart begins its decline. (It's also a good reason to have a regular checkup with your doctor.)

Heart failure can involve the heart's left side, right side or both sides. However, it usually affects the left side first.

Symptoms and Diagnosis of Heart Attack

Symptoms of heart attack

If you are concerned that you may be experiencing a heart attack, call 9-1-1. Minutes matter! Learn the warning signs to familiarize yourself in case of an emergency.

Symptoms of heart disease which may lead to a heart attack

You may be experiencing cardiovascular problems if you notice that ordinary physical activity causes you to experience the following symptoms:

Undue fatigue

Palpitations --- the sensation that your heart is skipping a beat or beating too rapidly

Dyspnea --- difficult or labored breathing

Anginal pain --- chest discomfort from increased activity

Stable angina (or chronic stable angina) refers to "predictable" chest discomfort such as that associated with physical exertion or mental or emotional stress. Rest and/or nitroglycerin usually relieve stable angina.

Unstable angina refers to unexpected chest pain and usually occurs at rest. It is typically more severe and prolonged and is due to a reduced blood flow to the heart caused by the narrowing of the coronary arteries in atherosclerosis. Unstable angina is an acute coronary syndrome and should be treated as an emergency. Learn about an unstable form of angina called Prinzmetal angina.

Diagnosis: How do I know if a heart attack has occurred?

A doctor who's studied the results of several tests must diagnose a heart attack. The doctor will

- review the patient's complete medical history.
- give a physical examination.

- use an electrocardiogram (ECG or EKG) to discover any abnormalities caused by damage to the heart. An ECG is a medical device that makes a graphical record of the heart's electrical activity.

- sometimes use a blood test to detect abnormal levels of certain enzymes in the bloodstream.

Blood tests confirm (or refute) suspicions raised in the early stages of evaluation that may occur in an emergency room, intensive care unit or urgent care setting. These tests are sometimes called heart damage markers or cardiac enzymes.

Heart attack: a signal of heart disease

Although you may have warning signs prior to a heart attack, the heart attack itself may be your first symptom of an underlying problem: cardiovascular disease such as coronary artery disease (CAD) which narrows and hardens your arteries around the heart or atherosclerosis which is often responsible for artery-blocking clots.

To diagnose the condition, heart attack patients may be asked to undergo a number of diagnostic tests and procedures. By learning what these tests are and why they're being done, you'll feel more confident. These tests are important and help the doctor determine if a heart attack occurred, how much your heart was damaged and also what degree of CAD you may have.

Diagnostic measures — "non-invasive" and "invasive"

The tests screen your heart and help the doctor determine what treatment and lifestyle changes will keep your heart healthy and prevent serious future medical events. There are "non-invasive" diagnostic tests and "invasive" diagnostic tests.

- Non-invasive tests don't involve inserting needles, instruments or fluids into the body.

- Invasive procedures can include a simple needle prick for a blood test or shot, insertion of a tube, device or scope and major surgeries such as open-heart surgery.

Likely diagnostic procedures

If you've had a heart attack, you may have already had certain procedures to help you survive your heart attack and diagnose your condition.

- Thrombolysis: Many heart attack patients have undergone thrombolysis, a procedure that involves injecting a clot-dissolving agent to restore blood flow in a coronary artery. This procedure is administered within a few (usually three) hours of a heart attack.

- Coronary Angioplasty/Coronary artery bypass graft surgery (CABG): If thrombolysis treatment isn't done immediately after a heart attack, many patients will need to undergo coronary angioplasty or coronary artery bypass graft surgery (CABG) later to improve blood supply to the heart muscle.

Why Cholesterol Matters

What Can Cholesterol Do?

High cholesterol is one of the major controllable risk factors for coronary heart disease, heart attack and stroke. As your blood cholesterol rises, so does your risk of coronary heart disease. If you have other risk factors (such as high blood pressure or diabetes) as well as high cholesterol, this risk increases even more. The more risk factors you have, the greater your chance of developing coronary heart disease. Also, the greater the level of each risk factor, the more that factor affects your overall risk.

When too much LDL (bad) cholesterol circulates in the blood, it can slowly build up in the inner walls of the arteries that feed the heart and brain. Together with other substances, it can form plaque, a thick, hard deposit that can narrow the arteries and make them less flexible. This condition is known as atherosclerosis. If a clot forms and blocks a narrowed artery, a heart attack or stroke can result.

High blood cholesterol: As blood cholesterol rises, so does risk of coronary heart disease. When other risk factors (such as high blood pressure and tobacco smoke) are present, this risk increases even more. Your cholesterol level can be affected by your age, gender, family health history and diet.

About High Blood Pressure

The first step in preventing and controlling high blood pressure is to learn the answers to a few questions, such as:

What is high blood pressure, and what happens in a person's body that makes it dangerous?

Over time, if the force of the blood flow is often high, the tissue that makes up the walls of arteries gets stretched beyond its healthy limit. This creates problems in several ways.

What do the numbers in a blood pressure reading mean?

The two numbers tell you the amount of force pushing against your artery walls when the heart is contracting and when the heart is at rest. Find out why these numbers are so important to your health.

When does HBP require emergency medical treatment?

High blood pressure often does its damage without creating symptoms, but when blood pressure numbers rise above 180 for the systolic pressure or 110 for the diastolic pressure, you need emergency treatment.

What is blood pressure too low?

Although it is possible that low blood pressure can alert you to a problem, it is usually only dangerous if it causes notable signs and symptoms.

What is pulmonary hypertension?

Pulmonary hypertension is high blood pressure in the heart-to-lungs system. Your blood has two loops in the circulation system. One goes to the body. The other goes to your lungs.

What is metabolic syndrome?

Metabolic syndrome is a cluster of health factors that indicate a higher risk for heart disease. Blood pressure is one measurement on the list.

What is the difference between blood pressure and heart rate?

Blood pressure is the amount of force on your arteries and your heart rate is number of times per minute your heart beats. Find out more about the impact of these numbers on your health.

Are you informed about high blood pressure?

Test your blood pressure IQ, find out your chances of escaping the silent killer, and get the latest scoop on sodium.

Understand Your Risk of Heart Attack

Understanding the terms of risk

Extensive clinical and statistical studies have identified several factors that increase the risk of coronary heart disease and heart attack.

Major risk factors are those that research has shown significantly increase the risk of heart and blood vessel (cardiovascular) disease.

Contributing risk factors

Other factors are associated with increased risk of cardiovascular disease, but their significance and prevalence haven't yet been precisely determined.

Modifiable risk factors

The American Heart Association has identified several risk factors. Some of them can be modified, treated or controlled, and some can't. Risk calculations

The more risk factors you have, the greater your chance of developing coronary heart disease. Also, the greater the level of each risk factor, the greater the risk. For example, a person with a total cholesterol of 300 mg/dL has a greater risk than someone with a total cholesterol of 245 mg/dL, even though everyone with a total cholesterol greater than 240 is considered high-risk.

Bruning Woman's Club Has Valentine Theme

On Valentine's Day, February 14, eight members and one guest of the Bruning Woman's Club met at the opera house for a fun afternoon. Roll call was answered by the telling of our favorite valentine gift.

Marie Huber was in charge of the program and she had tables decorated with red tablecloths. On one of the tables, we had 22 pounds of food items that the ladies brought for the food pantry in Hebron with a red theme. Some of the items brought were red Jello, spaghetti sauce and salsa. On the other decorated table were gifts Marie brought for the winners of our card game. She also brought a beautiful rose that she received from a "young" admirer.

Marietold us about Mardi Gras that is held in New Orleans, La., before the beginning of lent. She and her husband Marlyn visited the area where the floats are made for the parades when they were visiting family in Louisiana. She brought pictures that they took and shared them with us. It was amazing to see how large the structures are that they build for the floats. Everything to do with Mardi Gras is very colorful. Green and purple are the colors of the Mardi Gras.

Card tables were set up and we all played the game of hearts. Each table had a bowl of valentine candy for us to enjoy while playing cards. Prizes were handed out and then we all enjoyed a delicious lunch served by Marie.

We had ice cream with strawberry preserves, ice cream wafers and a homemade pretzel with a chocolate candy melted on it.

Then we had our business meeting. Lola told us that many school children entered the Beautiful Nebraska Contest this year and she has sent in all the entries. Winners of the contest will be announced at the March 23 District IV Fine Arts Festival in Seward at the Seward Civic Center.

The Sophomore Pilgrimage will held on March 14 at the capitol in Lincoln.

One of the projects of the Bruning Woman's Club is YRTC. Lola received a letter stating that YRTC could use cards, stationery, board games, card games and postage stamps. Our club will donate these items to YRTC at a later time.

The NFWC State Convention will be held April 12-14 at The Leadership Center in Aurora. The theme will be "Let's Get to the Heart of the Matter."

On October 10, the Bruning Woman's Club will celebrate its 90th anniversary. We will make plans for a celebration in the next few months. Meeting adjourned.

Our next meeting will be held on March 13 at the opera house at 2 p.m. The program will be a member quilt show with chairwoman Beth Garrison.

Durham-Mammen Auxiliary Notes

The Durham-Mammen Legion Auxiliary, Unit No. 166, Bruning, met February 13 at the opera house with nine members present.

President Janelle Bruning conducted the opening ceremony and prayer was given by our Chaplain Lola Johnson.

The business meeting was called to order. The minutes of the January meeting were reviewed and approved as corrected. Treasurer's report was given.

It was announced that Donna Schweer was elected county president at the annual meeting. Donna is a member of our unit.

The 2012 county meeting will be held on September 19 in Hebron.

The Past President's Parlay will be held at the new cafe in Davenport on April 16.

It was brought to our attention that Nebraska now ranks number two in membership standing.

We will be making valentine tray favors in 2013 to be taken to a vets home in western Nebraska.

We discussed the breakfast plan to serve on Saturday morning July 28. A decision will be made at our next business meeting as to what we will serve.

We will be sending care packages to three Bruning servicemen. We are asked to bring items to our March meeting to be included in these packages.

The meeting was adjourned and prayer was given.

Then we all worked on Easter baskets to be taken to Bruning residents who are now living in assisted living facilities and nursing homes.

Lunch was served by Pat Headrick and Sue Hinrichs.

Our next meeting will be Post No. 166 birthday party which will be held on March 12. We will eat supper at our local cafe at 6:30 p.m., and then adjourn to the opera house for card playing. Lola Johnson is hostess.

BDS Junior High Basketball...

The 2011-2012 BDS girls' junior high basketball season was a huge success. The girls learned a lot about teamwork, fundamentals, and how to lift up one another. The coaching staff was Joshua Harris and Doug Otto. The team posted a 9-1 record and won the Crossroads Conference Championship game against a very strong Shelby-Rising City squad. The BDS girls fought back from an 11 point deficit in the fourth quarter to win the championship 33-29. Members and coaches of the team are back from left, coach Doug Otto, Tristen Mosier, McKenna Schardt, Katherine Mick, Madison Yantzie, Jo Degner, and Brice Ardissino, and front from left, Sarah Hinds, Courtney Kamler, Carley Swartzendruber, Morgan Lowery, Melissa Hinrichs, and coach Joshua Harris.

130 Years Ago

Trains on the St. Joe & West-ern were blockaded for about 12 hours.

His vaccination took such strong effect that O.P. Hendershot, held a bed down, several days. He is okay now and small-pox proof.

Our music teacher has gone to fields and pastures new, with the avowed intention of giving Hebron "dose names of bad places." And all because he couldn't bulldoze the people out of $100.

Benjamin Young, the nursery man, informs us that so far the peach, cherry, apple and plum buds are in good condition and promise an unusual crop of fruit. If nothing transpires to hurt the buds.

During all the cold storm and blizzard the Gaskill family occupied a tent, south of town. Singularly enough none of them were frozen, or seemed to suffer particularly. They have since moved into the "Roby house."

Thayer county maintains more than 300 ex-soldiers and it is the intention, if possible, to have all attend the reunion at Grand Island, and make the largest showing of any county in the state.

A large audience assembled at the courthouse in this place to hear the address by Gen. Thayer. His subject, "Genius, Its Use and Abuse," was skillfully handled and contained the result of much reading and investigation. The people of this county feel a sense of proprietorship in Gen. Thayer and will always give him a warm welcome and a large audience.

If we can get a good crop this season the chances are we will come to the front, for prices will undoubtedly be good, as none of the old crop will be left over. Farmers in this county will get in their crops early and show the world what Nebraska soil can do under favorable circumstances.

William Rhodes, who formerly resided in Hebron, has returned to this place to live. He will be employed in the harness shop of his brother, Milton Rhodes, whose business is growing to such an extent that he needs more help to keep pace with the demands of his trade.

The merry jingle of the sleigh bells and dull thud of the rickety bob-sled are some of the delights of winter which we have experienced.

Mr. Correll has again gone to Lincoln to get out his Woman's Journal.

Five-hundred eighty sheep were brought back by Jim Gates and John Holcomb from their Missouri trip.

The Parker brothers of New York, who own 800 acres of land south of the poor farm, are rusticating in Hebron. They think of breaking a part of their land this season.

Prof. Mickey of Belvidere is delivering a course of four lectures at Belvidere, on the proper education of the mental faculties. Would it not be a good idea to secure this course of lectures for our library association.

As if to show how liable the mildew of disappointment is to blast our fondest anticipations, our last issue with its bright items about the beautiful and balmy weather was scarcely off the press before we had a polar visit from old Boreas.

Two of our Hebron ladies visited Belvidere and after being highly entertained by Mrs. D.P. Hole, the Belvidere land lady, Dr. Piggott made his appearance with his vaccine points and as is his custom, vaccinated the ladies free of charge. The doctor's large heart prompts him to carry his lance and points with him and he vaccinates free, all who call upon him.

Mr. Feree has bought a farm a few miles west of town, and has moved his family out there.

Edith May, little daughter of E.M. and E.C. Johnson, age one year, died at Chester.

South Carleton Grandpa Limes and family of Endicott are visiting his son, E.T.

Frank Hollenback has moved from Illinois to his farm in south Carleton.

Jacob Pfanabecker will move to the Leslie farm as soon as Mr. Smith moves to the Bigelow place.

J.W. Lamb bought 150 bushels of corn of Dick Woodfin, at 60 cents per bushel.

Hubbell Mr. Johnson and son have arrived from Wisconsin and are building on their farm north of town.

Thomas Craig is running a tin shop.

Mr. Cooley is our new postmaster.

Mrs. Samuel Arbuthnot has returned from Pennsylvania, bringing with him a beautiful bride. We're glad to see the firm of Burnham & Arbuthnot in a prosperous condition and wish Mr. and Mrs. Arbuthnot prosperity and may their lifeboat float down the stream of time without a ripple to disturb their happiness.

Prairie Star Geo. McLaughlin and George Fitzsimmons returned from the western part of this state. Mr. M. brought back the remains of his little girl for final interment, who died in the west.

W.G. Apley returned from Iowa where he had been visiting and rusticating with cider and apples for the past three weeks. He came back alone and disappointed the boys, but he has promised to bring her out next fall.

Belvidere Mr. Graham of Illinois arrived at Belvidere with teams and stock, intending to make Thayer county his future home.

If the parties who made so much noise in the vicinity of the blacksmith shop will promise not to disgrace themselves in the future, we will not call names or write up their proceedings for the benefit of the public, in this communication. Be careful boys, if you get on another such a "bender" we may "squeal."

C.J. Rhodes brought in an ear of corn containing 1,200 grains.

Mr. Holmes, a newcomer four miles north of Chester, brought 250 steers.

Ashbrook & Son report the sale of the NE1/4, 27, 2-4, to Jacob Rentschler, near Deshler, for $3,200. Raw land.

Bert Cropsey has bought the interest of his partner, Louis Decker, in the Ruby livery stable.

Dan Ruby has bought Hersh & Sons lumber yard at Belvidere.

Bruning wants to become a municipal corporation.

J.T. Humphrey of Rose

Creek, reports the sale of 700 pounds of cream during eight months. He also states that his hens are his most profitable stock.

The funeral of H.O. Talmadge at Belvidere was very largely attended.

School District No. 22 known as the "Town Four" district, is entitled to great credit as the first country district (so far as our knowledge extends) in this county to erect a flagpole and float a large United States flag to the breeze. The flagpole 36 feet in height was put up and on Washington's birthday, the glorious stars and stripes floated from its peak.

Albert Frost of Carleton precinct has traded his farm for the Sheridan hotel in Carleton and its furniture and equipments.

Chris Harmon of this precinct reports that he raised and fed sugar beets to his cows. As long as the beets lasted the milk was plentiful and the cream rich. When the beets were all gone, he noticed a falling off both in the quantity and quality of the milk.

A party possessing all the elements of social pleasure combined with features of charming novelty and originality was given by Mrs. N.A. Heath in her lovely home in honor of her mother, Mrs. Ellen R. Galbraith, the occasion being the latter's birthday. All of the guests in attendance were grandmothers and five of the ladies were great-grandmothers. The ages of the 15 guests and the hostess aggregated 1,027 years. Attending were Mesdames Randall, Ferguson, Huse, Smith, Bassford, Bassore, Knode, Hendershot, Parmely, Young, Past, Dix, Green, Slocomb and Galbraith.

Maple Zephyrs At last threshing in this vicinity is over. Chas. Leslie was the last man finished.

Sigal Watson of District 19 will spell orally any word between the lids of any spelling book in this county, or will spell with anyone in the county.

North Hubbell Anthony Webber will soon have his new house ready for occupancy on his farm six miles northwest of town.

Frank Marvin has taken unto himself a "better half" and will farm Miss Julia Cass' place.

G.E. Craig of Jacksonville, Ill, who has rented the W.W. Johnson farm, arrived by train with a carload of goods.
