Ebke: "No one in charge wants to admit economy down"

By Nancy McGill
Hebron Journal-Register
hebronjrnews@windstream.net

District 32 Sen. Laura Ebke will have an eventful 105th session of the Nebraska Legislature, considering her plate includes an appointment to the judiciary chair with its couple of hundred bills and corrections reform.

"Anything sent to our committee deals with corrections reform, criminal justice and Second Amendment issues," she said. "I schedule all the hearings and preside over them."

Ebke has served the committee for two years and is occasionally frustrated with the process because of time.

"People may have felt like their legislation wasn't given enough attention because of timing," Ebke said.

For the past four to five years, corrections has been a central issue on the committee's agenda. In addition, the committee oversees family law and in particular, parental rights.

"I hear most from fathers who feel like they are being bribed to spend time with their kids. Part of the problem is the system hasn't necessarily adjusted to the times," she explained.

They also dive into social issues, such as abortion and the wording on the clinic signs and medical marijuana.

Her goal for the committee is to ensure she presides in a fair manner and hears both sides of the issues.

In regards to the $900 million budget shortfall, Ebke said it is based on two-year forecast and the senators must look at what they can cut and ways to increase revenue.

"Amazon recently announced they would collect sales tax and send it back to the state. That won't make all the difference to pull us out of this economic recession," she said.

No one with political power wants to admit the economy is down, she added.

"Farm economy is down, commodity prices are down and that affects the rest of the state in a big way. If farmers aren't spending money, other businesses aren't making money," she said.

Ebke has her own bills, one for reforming occupational licensing that requires employees to purchase permits just to work.

"They have nothing to do with safety. If you scrape asbestos tile off the floor, you still have to have a license, which seems like overkill from my standpoint," she said. "Yes, you want people to be safe and trained to handle dangerous materials, but does the laborer really need to have a license?" Ebke questioned.

Her Convention of States bill will return as well.

"We have more support than we did last year," she said. That support includes several of the 17 new senators who were elected.

Ebke said she will schedule a town hall for Hebron soon. Most likely, she will visit on a Saturday.

Second half of 2016 saw giving, active citizens in county

In late June, Thayer County District Court saw its most paramount trial of 2016 — Harold Stone was declared guilty of four counts of first degree sexual assault of a child and one count of child abuse.

Evidence introduced in the trial centered on a digital trail of Stone's crimes, ranging from text messages to emails to photographs located on a variety of his devices.

This week, the Hebron Journal-Register completes its review of 2016.

Newly elected Thayer County Commissioner Rick Dageforde takes his oath to serve from Thayer County Court Clerk Vicki Jarchow. Dageforde served his first meeting Jan. 5.

Sudbeck takes seat at council table

New Hebron City Councilwoman Denese Sudbeck believes in solutions and in order to get there, people must be active.

"Current and previous council members deserve and get my respect because they have chosen to give their time not only to monthly meetings, but serve on sub-committees and spend time doing research," she said.

Sudbeck said she has a lot of learn about the city and its operations and she is willing to do the necessary work.

Sudbeck is open to citizen concerns and would like those with issues to take an active part in solutions.

"I want to encourage people in the City of Hebron to attend the meetings and interact with the council and city administrator," she said. "The meetings are open for a reason. We all need to play a part to make our lives in Hebron successful and enjoyable."

Sudbeck, who will oversee Ward I in the city, had a temporary gig at the city office and said she became familiar with how the city operated.

"I developed my own opinions about the issues facing our community," she said.

Around that time, former city councilman Jay Bauer decided not to run for another term. Sudbeck was asked to run.

She said she has met people in Hebron with "amazing" stories and loves learning about the history and the people who made Hebron what it is today.

"My grandparents grew up in Fairbury and I have some relatives living in and around Hebron. My grandfather used to tell me about the 1953 tornado and the big dances in Hebron," Sudbeck said.

She and her husband, Darren, have four children who attend Thayer Central. Sudbeck is a stay-at-home mother who assists her husband with office work and helps coach summer softball. She is actively involved in St. Ann's Altar Society, attends Sacred Heart Catholic Church and serves as the vice president of P.E.O. Chapter IQ.

Sudbeck was raised in York and eventually joined the York Fire Department, serving as secretary and on the executive committee. She is a certified EMT and fire fighter. She is now a member of the Hebron Volunteer Fire Department.

She takes great pride in seeing how generous the Hebron community is and how passionate people are in their beliefs.

"I look forward to the day when I am able to tell my grandchildren stories about this wonderful community," she said.

New Hebron City Council Member, Denese Sudbeck takes her oath administered by Hebron Mayor Shane Day.

Assault case held in Thayer

A first degree assault and use of a deadly weapon to commit a felony stemming from Nuckolls County was heard in Thayer County District Court Jan. 6.

James Stillwell pled no contest to the class II felonies.

The incident occurred Oct. 29 as police found a 32-year-old female victim outside a local residence with a knife protruding from her back.

The victim later reported she and the defendant were watching television and playing computer games when she got up to answer a knock at her door.

Before she could reach the door, Stillwell stabbed her with a three-inch knife. He fled the scene before witnesses heard her scream for help. The stabbing affected her lungs and back.

Sentencing is scheduled for March 7, 1 p.m., in Nuckolls County.

The anarchists of Chicago may now breathe freer. The Dry Creek lyceum has decided that they ought not to be executed.

Let us at least concentrate our energies on the starting of three manufacturing enterprises here—a woolen mill, a paper mill and a canning factory.

Two cases of falling out of wagons occurred at Chester on Monday, both parties being intoxicated.

It was reported last Monday that buyers were paying $4.05 per hundred pounds here for hogs; $4.15 at Stoddard and $4.25 at Hubbell. If this report is true, our local hog buyers should awake from their lethargy and keep abreast of the times.

The old and new boards of county commissioners were both in session this week, the former delivering to the latter the management of county affairs. If our memory serves us correctly, this is the first time since the organization of the county that the board has been composed entirely of new members.

Three weeks ago Robert Shearer bid goodbye to his friends and started for Southern California, full of glowing hopes of plenty of work at $7 a day at his trade of bricklaying. Yesterday his friends were surprised to see him again on our streets. He says those who go to that country with plenty of money are all right, but that it is no country for a poor man. All branches of business and all kinds of labor are terribly overdone—and still the people pour into that country by train loads. He says he came back for the simple reason that he could not find work.

Died, at her home near Deshler, Dec. 24, Mrs. Clarissa Templin, aged 86 years, 4 months and 65 days. She was born in New Jersey and moved with her parents to Ohio at the age of six years, and has lived in Nebraska about 24 years...

This will be acceptable in our little town... At 5 minutes past 1 o'clock Monday morning, Mrs. Lydia Pletcher passed away, after a very trying illness of some weeks. She was but 26 years old. She leaves a husband and two baby girls, besides a mother, sisters and brothers, to mourn her loss. The scene at the funeral could hardly be described. The little ones' desire to go to its mamma was truly a heartrending picture.

Probably no one voted with an easier conscience than John Currier, who finished gathering his corn crop the night before election. This is characteristic of John's energy, to have his crop gathered when many other farmers had just commenced work. And it was no small yield, either, he having raised 3,000 bu. of corn. This combined with 2,200 bu. of corn held over from last year makes 5,200 bu.

representing good hard cash. But that represents only a part of the results of Mr. Currier's farm work for the past season, he having raised 2,300 bu. of wheat, 1,000 bu. of oats, and 30 tons of hay; at the price of hay, about $10 per ton, this means a neat little sum of money just for old dried grass! No flies on Nebraska! Mr. Currier's 350 acres of land is better than mining stock in Mr. Coate's Idaho project!

M. H. Cruise has been "discovered." For many years "Fiddler Mike" has been "making" the county fairs and festivals, giving programs of readings, singing, dancing and fiddling. This fall he returned to Hebron with a luxurious growth of wavy white hair, reaching to his shoulders and a long white patriarchal beard. Mr. Day, photographer, gave Mike a sitting. The beautiful picture makes its appearance as a front piece in the Kodak Journal. Recently a representative of the Emery, Bird, Thayer store in Kansas City spotted Mike's possibilities as Santa.

His coloring, twinkling eyes and laughing countenance fit the part better than any mask. A contract was made for Mike to appear as Santa Claus in the store at Kansas City at $4 a day and expenses from Nov. 24 to Dec. 24. His violin will accompany him. On his arrival at Kansas City, Mike will be met at the station with a cab and whisked to a tailor, where he will be outfitted in a fur-trimmed satin plush robe, boots, etc. But that is not all, Mike's cup of glory is filled to overflowing. Lewis A. Lincoln of the Kansas City Trade Journal has made a proposition to act as Mike's manager at a big salary on a 50-50 basis., for future appearances in large eastern cities. We venture the belief that he will yet appear in the movies and help to "put Hebron on the map."

Davenport American Legion Auxiliary holds January meeting

The Davenport American Legion Auxiliary met on Monday January 9 for their regular scheduled monthly meeting at the Community building.

President Sharon Littrel called the meeting to order at 5:30 p.m. The Chaplain had an opening prayer, the group recited the pledge to the Flag and sang "God Bless America". After the preamble was repeated by all roll call was taken nine senior members answered if they saw the ball drop at midnight in Times Square.

After the reading of the December minutes and treasurers report we heard committee reports.

Deb Albers reminded us that at our February meeting we will select our Girls State representative as the application for this has to be in to Department by March 1. She will visit the school and talk to those eligible. She also reported about her visit to the Capital for a meeting of legislature which had to do with an announcement made by Governor Ricketts merging two Veterans agencies. Many Service Organizations were in attendance. She also reminded the Auxiliary that on February 3 will be Legislative day at the State Capital and encouraged the ladies to attend.

Membership Chairman Deb Johnson reported that we have one member that has not paid dues at this time.

A letter from the Department Chaplain was read asking members in the Department to send her items for the Prayer book for the Department President. A final discussion for the Soup Supper to be held on Friday, January 20 was finalized. Committees were announced and the American Legion will be asked for assistance as well.

Future dates will be the County meeting on February 1 to be held in Alexandria, 6:30 p.m. Lunch and the meeting to follow. Department Mid year will be held in Grand Island January 13-15 at the Grand Hotel.

There being no further business the meeting closed with prayer.

Belvidere

By Linda Hudson

The year 2017 is here and it is giving communities, businesses, organizations, a chance to officially celebrate NEBRASKA 150 CELEBRATION. It is hoped through this opportunity Nebraskans will feel a deeper connection with their heritage, culture and people. Many projects are included including one of doing 150 hours of volunteering. Belvidere has already been the recipient with Issac, Tim Else and Tom Priefert picking up Christmas lights and putting Nativity scene figures in storage for another year. As many small town's struggle any type of free service will help keep the town going. It seems to be the only saving grace for little villages. Otherwise one can take a short ride east of here and witness what years can do.

The early settlers of Powell, Ne. probably never knew what deterioration of a town can do. Belvidere and others were formed only 5 years after NEBRASKA became a state. SATURDAY a funeral was held in town. Someone asked the age of the little white church on the corner. Jackie Williamson said that the United Church of Christ was the second oldest church in the county. The (now Lutheran church in Hubbell) is the oldest.

It was nice to have the Jackson family back in town on Saturday. They laid to rest their mother.

JoAnn Jackson (Dow) in the Belvidere Cemetery. All six children plus other relatives and friends were here. Marilyn, a sister from York was also present. She has another sister, Barbara, in York. This family was an important part of Belvidere and lived here when the Belvidere kids went to Hebron to school. Jo and Fred operated the Belvidere Steakhouse which is now known as Toad's Place. The family stopped to reminisce at their folk's business place before they left town.

The Annual meeting of the Belvidere UCC church will be held this Sunday morning, Jan. 15 after church service.

After years of memorizing nine planets, "Sixty Minutes" informs us now that there are just 8 planets. Pluto as of last year is no longer considered a planet. Now it is called a dwarf in our solar system. The planets were all named after Gods but earth. The title Earth means "ground". It is hard to believe that while we are going about our lives there are astronomers studying the Universe ALL the time. They think they have discovered a "ninth" planet about 10 times the mass of earth. If we wanted to take the time and "look up" on a cold, clear winter night, we could see quite a few in our Solar System with the naked eye.

Probably more important the eyes are fixed on the big screen watching if the beloved Husker basketball team was going to beat all odds and start with 4 record wins. However it wasn't to be had as Northwestern turned their 3 point shooting ability up a notch. Will be waiting for the next exciting game. Nothing can be said about the poor struggling girl's team. Oh, well, their time will come. One has to feel for the brand new coach though. She is having some Mike Riley luck! For now need to concentrate on our home basketball teams! Go girls!

Navigate and Know Your Health Insurance

In recent years, all of us have seen many changes in our healthcare insurance. Some of these changes have been in what is offered or how it is provided by health insurance companies. To get the most out of what you are paying for and have available, Thayer County Health Services wants to remind you to "read your policy's fine print" and annually review what your health insurance plan offers.

The following are some general tips for you to get the most from your insurance coverage:

1) Make sure your provider is in your insurance network. If not you may pay a higher deductible or could be denied insurance coverage for out of network services. There is a phone number on the back of your insurance card or you can go to their website to confirm network providers. Be careful when getting a referral, don't assume because your physician refers you to a specialist for a procedure, that it will be within your network. (Physicians don't know who all is covered by the many different insurance plans.) If the referred physician is not in network, know what it will cost you to see them. Otherwise you should find a physician that is in your network and ask for a referral to them.

2) Know when to have preauthorization or referral for services. At Thayer County Health Services and many hospitals, staff can confirm preauthorization so you have the best coverage or they can inform you of the status of your coverage so you can make the best decision. Remember, don't assume, check/confirm!

3) Deductibles, copays and co-insurance can be different for 'in or out of network' services. Make sure you understand your deductible levels: the amount of money you have to pay before insurance pays anything. Know what your copayment and/or coinsurance (the amount after your deductible is met) is going to be and expect to pay it when you go to your appointment. You may be asked to pay a portion or all of the deductible prior to being seen. This is standard practice, so you shouldn't be shocked when this is asked of you. The best time to ask about this is when you make the appointment with your primary provider, specialists or for an outpatient or surgical procedure.

4) Services received in the emergency room come at a higher cost for that care. Although you cannot be denied treatment based on your ability to pay when being seen in the emergency room, you can expect to pay more for that care. Some payment may even be requested at the time of service.

5) Probably the most important tip is to take advantage of what you are paying for! Many services and tests are called preventative for a reason: to catch symptoms, illness or disease and prevent it either from occurring or progressing! Most health plans are required to cover preventative care without cost to patient. Examples include: immunizations; annual well child and well woman physicals; cholesterol screening; cancer screenings; mammograms; or counseling to improve your health. Know what your insurance plan covers for preventative or essential health benefits and make sure you are using them!

This list is not all inclusive of what is offered and what you must know regarding your insurance. The bottom line is talk to your insurance provider, read the materials you received from your insurance company or check out their website.

Thayer County Health Services wants you to get a bang for your buck in 2017 by knowing your insurance coverage, staying out of the ER and use the preventative health care options your insurance provides. The goal is to keep you healthy and out of the clinic and hospital.

Obituaries

Norma Yates

Norma Jean Yates, 80, passed away December 22, at the Pearl Assisted Living Home in Centennial Colorado. She was born November 24, 1936, in her parent's home in Hebron, to James Norman and Vernita Mabel Miller.

She is survived by her husband, Benjamin Joseph (Joe) Yates and family. They were married November 25, 1952, at her parent's home in Hebron. Their 64th wedding anniversary was just days before her passing.

To this marriage, Norma Jean and Joe were blessed with four children, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild. The children are Joline L. Yeager of Dayton, Nev., Michael H. Yates of Elizabeth, Colo., and Steven R. Yates of Englewood Colo. One son, Timothy E. Yates, passed away December 7, 2016, just prior to his mother.

Norma Jean is also survived by her brothers, Ron Miller and Bill Miller; grandchildren, Mike Yeager, Michelle Yeager, Mackinze, Thomas and Natalie Yates, Ben and Cody Yates; and great-grandchild Hailey Yeager.

They started their married life in Hebron, later to several locations in Kansas.

Colorado was their home for over 50 years. Norma Jean loved the Colorado mountains and the solitude of their home for over 35 years in Elizabeth, Colorado.

As she grew up in Hebron, Norma Jean loved to go to work with her father, sit on his lap and drive the truck, especially to the farm areas. Her father built her a marvelous brick playhouse with real doors and windows and her mother furnished it with dolls and play furniture. She and her close friends spent many fun times in the playhouse. As she became a teenager, her real love was roller skating with her father and friends.

She was confirmed in the Lutheran Church.

During their early married years they moved to Junction City, Kansas, where Joe served in the Army at Ft Riley, Kansas. When they moved to Colorado she worked at Samsonite Luggage while raising their family. Her favorite work place was at 7-11, where she showed her abilities with people and leadership. She loved the benefits it brought to her family and her personal satisfaction.

After moving to Elizabeth, Colo., they joined the LDS Church which brought great joy, comfort and satisfaction to Norma Jean. She was a diligent sister of the church by gathering and inputting ancestral records. She was exceptionally proud of this contribution to the church, family and friends.

Norma Jean will be greatly missed by her family, friends and associates. Her strong will and never give up attitude was a part of her daily life. She was creative and had a good viewpoint for interior design.

Funeral services in Colorado were held on January 7 at the Elizabeth Church of Latter Day Saints.

On January 14, at 10:30 a.m., funeral services will be held at Price Funeral Home in Hebron.

She will be laid to rest in the Hebron City Cemetery close to her parents.

Price Funeral of Hebron helped the Yates family with the arrangements.

JoAnn Jackson

JoAnn Gayle (Dow) Jackson, beloved mother, grandmother and great grandmother, passed away peacefully in York, on January 4, 2017, at the age of 84. Born in a blizzard on April 3, 1932, in Brady, to Alvie and Mildred (Northrup) Dow.

JoAnn was the middle of three sisters, with older sister, Barbara, and younger sister Marilyn. The family lived on several farms in Thayer County before finally settling on a farm in Belvidere.

JoAnn attended Belvidere High School where she made many life long friends, graduating in 1949.

Following graduation, JoAnn attended college in Fairbury earning a teaching certificate. She taught for a year in Thayer County teaching 13 children in seven grades at a country school with a wood burning stove and no running water.

JoAnn married Fred Jackson, her high school sweetheart, in 1951. They drove her $200 Chevrolet to Alamogordo, New Mexico, where Fred served in the Air Force. JoAnn worked as a clerk at the military base until her first of six children was born.

Fred and Jo returned to a farm east of Belvidere where Jo cared for her growing family, cooked for farm crews, gardened, canned, and sewed.

In 1961, the family moved to the town of Belvidere where they owned and operated the Belvidere Bar and Steakhouse.

JoAnn was an active member of the Belvidere community where she was a charter member of the Belvidere Better Homemakers, taught Bible school, helped lead the 4-H Club, and was a member of the Belvidere Women's Club.

JoAnn had a beautiful voice and sang for many church and community events. Her children have loving memories of her singing "Oh Holy Night" on Christmas Eve. Even later in life you might find her lending her soprano harmonies to sing along with the Gaither Brothers.

She was artistically gifted and enjoyed ceramics, painting, sewing and quilting. Everyone in the family received a beautiful quilt lovingly made by JoAnn as she celebrated all occasions, be it a birth, a graduation or a wedding giving her handmade gift to be treasured forever. As a member of the York Quilt Guild, she participated in many projects sewing quilts for those in need.

JoAnn and her family moved to York in 1974. JoAnn co-owned The Bottle Shop, then worked at York State Bank until celebrating her retirement in 1995. She continued working as a seamstress for Tom's Clothing for several years. Although she had many jobs, her family would tell you that her life's work was dedicated to loving them.
